What is an Occupational Driver's License?

An Occupational Driver's License is a restricted license issued to a person whose license has been suspended or revoked for certain reasons. An occupational license authorizes the operator of a non-commercial motor vehicle in connection with a person's occupation, for education purposes or in the performance of essential household duties. Requests for such licenses are made to the county or district court in the county of the licensee's residence or to the court of original jurisdiction where the offense occurred.

If granted, the court order alone is not an Occupational Driver's License. Along with the order there are other requirements needed to be submitted to the Texas Department of Public Safety so an Occupational License can be issued. Contact DPS at: (512) 424-2600 or at their website www.txdps.state.tx.us/administration/driver_licensing_control/. The court order may be used as a license for 30 days from the date of the judge's signature while DPS processes the occupational license.
